Parish Mission Statement

"Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, until the end of the age." Matthew 28:19-20

Hail Mary, Full of Grace, The Lord is with thee. Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus. Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners now, and at the hour of our death. Amen.

Pastor's Notes

Friendship

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

I am so grateful for the friends that God has given me. I am blessed to have good friends, but they aren't all the same. Someone once told me that we have friendships for a reason, a season, or for life. I think this catchy statement is derived from a lesson that dates back to the Greek philosopher Aristotle.

St. Thomas Aquinas once said that "there is nothing on this earth more to be prized than true friendship." But what makes a friendship? What bonds us to some people, and not others? There's an article by Jack Maden about Aristotle's 3 types of friendships. Aristotle suggests we're drawn to people for one or a combination of the following reasons: because they are useful to us in some way, because we enjoy their company, or because we admire their character. From these, he developed three tiers of friendships.

The friendship of utility. This is a friendship based on a reason--on something that someone can do for you, or what you can do for another person. Such relationships have little to do with character and can end as soon as any possible use for you or the other person is removed from the equation. This primitive type of friendship is superficial, to say the least.

The friendship of pleasure. These are friendships based on enjoyment of a shared activity for a season of life. This might be someone with whom we played sports, or made music within a band or a choir in one's youth. Or perhaps you shared a pledge class with someone in a fraternity or sorority while in college. Or maybe you might share a hobby with someone for a time. While there is an added sense of camaraderie, this type of relationship can again end quickly, dependent as it is on people's ever-changing fads, likes and dislikes.

The friendship of virtue. These are the people that influence us positively and push us to be better. They are often friends for life. This kind of relationship, based as it is on the character of two self-sufficient equals, is a lot more stable than the previous two categories. I think of my priest friend who is also a spiritual companion for life. We met in seminary, and our relationship blossomed when we started praying the rosary together each night. This led to conversations and sharing about the joys and sorrows of ministry. Still today, I challenge him to be a better priest, and he does the same for me. We still pray together and challenge one another when we are off track.

As we look at these definitions and tiers, many start to categorize people as we search for high-level friendships. And this search can be painful when we think someone is capable of a virtuous friendship when they are not, or maybe not with you. But it is also true that friendships of utility and pleasure have their place. We need them as they sometimes incubate into friendships of virtue.

Jesus' example challenges friendships built only on convenience, social advantage, or mutual payback. In His teaching about inviting guests, Our Lord directs attention to the poor and those unable to repay the invitation. John Chrysostom, in a homily, once reflected that generosity is not to be limited to people who can return a favor. Christian friendship should be generous, but Christian love must also reach beyond one's circle of friends to those who are easily excluded.

Friendship does not require pretending that harmful conduct is good. Ambrose describes friendship as involving openness, patience, and correction offered gently; he warns that virtue should not be abandoned for a friend's sake. Friendship serves the good of both people, rather than becoming a reason to excuse wrongdoing or seek personal advantage.

Taken together, Jesus' teaching reminds us that friendship includes the beautiful gift of closeness that bears fruit in faithful love. Our Lord makes His disciples His friends, shares with them what He has received from the Father, and gives Himself for them. Those who receive that friendship are called to remain with Him, love as He loves, and extend generous care to others—including people who cannot repay them.

What is the point of this column? Well, Mother Teresa sent her sisters to serve in the Western world because she saw an epidemic of loneliness. Today, perhaps more than ever before, we need to foster healthy friendships that lead us to one another and to Christ. I think it is much easier for Christians to nurture virtuous friendships as we strive to form Christ-centered bonds where believers support, encourage, and sharpen one another in their walk with God.

Being a virtuous friend is often contagious and can help others grow in holiness. That is, when you go out of your way to be a good friend, you often develop and attract good friends in return. And those friendships function as leaven for good in our fractured world.

God Bless,

Fr. Don Kline

Ushers for Mass Needed

St. Bernadette Parish is seeking additional volunteers to serve as Ushers at our weekend Masses. If you enjoy serving others and would like to become more involved in our parish community, we invite you to consider joining this important ministry.

Usher Responsibilities:

- Welcome parishioners and visitors before Mass.
- Assist with seating as needed.
- Take up the offertory collection.
- Help coordinate the offertory gift procession.
- Distribute parish bulletins after Mass.

If you are interested in serving as an usher, please contact Karli Moreno at kmoreno@saintbernadette.com. We would be grateful to have you join this ministry!

Because of you, life doesn't stop.
